Melodies that tell stories

BORIS KOSAK – Composer & Pianist · Press Kit

Short profile

Boris Kosak is a composer and pianist based in Hamburg. His piano evenings are driven by strong, memorable melodies—clearly narrated, emotionally immediate, and often gripping after just a few notes. Live, this becomes an evening like an inner film: tension, calm, resonance.

Short spoken introductions connect the pieces into an arc and create a sense of closeness.

As a point of orientation for audiences: melodic piano evenings between cinematic sensibility and contemporary piano tradition.

Why it works?

- Instantly accessible: a melodic core, clear dramaturgy, emotional directness.
 - Audience-friendly: short spoken introductions that provide context and connect the evening.
 - Reliably marketable: clear dramaturgy + strong melodies + personal address—also for audiences without a classical subscription.
 - Flexible for venues: cultural centres, churches, chamber-sized venues

Programmes and bookable formats

1) Solo piano evening (standard format)

Duration: 70–90 minutes (with a short break or without—by arrangement).
Content: a selection of original pieces—from calm, cinematic moments to more intense, rhythmic passages. Short spoken introductions connect the works into a coherent evening.

Not a continuous ambient carpet—rather pieces with theme, development, and recognizable character.

2) Duo option (optional)

A duo version (e.g., with violin or vocals) is possible as an extension. The focus remains on the piano; the duo option is agreed on a project-by-project basis.

Selected venues

Laeiszhalle Hamburg · Glocke Bremen · Lister Turm Hannover · Ehrbar Saal Wien

Ehrbar Saal (live excerpt, 1:34)

Cooperation models

Conditions depend on your venue structure and the planned framework. Three models are particularly practical:

1. Revenue share (split deal): joint event with a defined split.
2. Guest performance fee: fixed fee; travel/accommodation by arrangement.
3. Minimum guarantee + participation: base guarantee plus participation above a defined threshold.

If you wish, I can send 2–3 concrete variants (with a numerical range) tailored to venue size and ticket price.
